

Welcome note of the rector of the University of Sarajevo, Prof. Dr. Rifat Škrijelj, on the occasion of the ICDEA 2021 Virtual Conference,

Sarajevo, 26.07.2021.

Dear participants of the ICDEA 2021 Virtual Conference,

On behalf of the University of Sarajevo, welcome to the ICDEA 2021 Virtual Conference. The University of Sarajevo is honored to host the official meeting of the International Society of Difference Equations and provide a virtual platform where world-known mathematicians and experts will share their knowledge and research among themselves and with students interested in difference equations and related topics. As a rector of the University of Sarajevo, I am immensely proud that Sarajevo and our University have the opportunity to continue the significant tradition of organizing ICDEA official meetings.

Undoubtedly, the University of Sarajevo wholeheartedly supports the overall goal of the ICDEA 2021 and shares awareness and concerns for scientific development in difference equations and discrete dynamical systems and their applications to science, engineering, economics, and a variety of other relevant disciplines. Therefore, I am sure that all participants, professors and experts, and students will manage to explore the full potential of this ICDEA 2021 Conference to benefit their overall academic and professional activity. Still, be aware that only our joint efforts, organized in events such as ICDEA 2021, can significantly progress in different scientific fields that we belong to. So, use this opportunity without any reservations, discuss all relevant topics and issues, and conclude the Conference successfully.

I express my gratitude to all individuals and institutions that have contributed to the successful organization of ICDEA 2021. I hope that one of the future ICDEA gatherings will be organized in person in Sarajevo again so that all of you will have the opportunity to explore the sights of Sarajevo and the hospitality of our people.

Thank you!
